

Notes to contributors

The Editors of the Journal of International Economic Law welcome contributions of articles, notes and book reviews related to international economic law. Articles should normally range from 5,000 to 10,000 words and should be prefaced by an abstract of less than 200 words. Book reviews and Notes should in general not exceed 2500 words. Authors are invited to follow the Journal's style sheet which may be downloaded from the website of the Journal at <http://jiel.oxfordjournals.org/>. Please send an electronic version of your manuscript by email to the Editor, at: jiel@law.georgetown.edu. If that is not possible, the Editor may consider a hard copy, however, the response will take longer. In such cases, please send one hard copy of your manuscript together with a diskette to: The Editor, Journal of International Economic Law, c/o Georgetown University Law Center, 600 New Jersey Avenue, NW, Washington DC 20001, USA. Fax: (1) 202 662 4222. The Publisher will supply online access and 25 offprints of each article free of charge.

Copyright

Authors may use their own material in other publications provided that publication in the Journal is appropriately acknowledged. Unless otherwise expressly indicated in a particular work published in the Journal, photocopying is permitted beyond that permitted by sections 107 and 108 of the US Copyright Law regarding fair use, for course use in any public or private institution of learning provided that: (1) copies are distributed at or below cost, including reasonable commercial cost of assembling and duplicating; (2) the author and the Journal are identified on the copies; and (3) proper notice of copyright is affixed to each copy. Other reproduction may occur only by prior written permission of the publisher or by licence obtained in the UK by the Copyright Licensing Agency Ltd, 90 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 9HE or in the USA by the Copyright Clearance Center, 222 Rosewood Drive, Danvers, MA 01923. To the extent permitted by fair use laws individual scholars may make a copy of particular works in the Journal for their own research or teaching use only. Authors may use their own material in other publications provided that the Journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication.

Layout

Please see the Journal's style sheet for more information downloadable at <http://jiel.oxfordjournals.org>. Copies are also available from the Editorial and Production Offices. All copies must be typed in the style of the journal (see a recent issue) on one side only of the paper (preferably A4), double spaced, with a margin of at least 2.5 cm on the lefthand side. Footnotes, indicated by superscript figures in the text, should also be used for listing references after they have been cited in the text. Tables and figures should be attached on separate sheets at the end of the manuscript and their position indicated in the text.

Use of mathematics

Authors are asked to use mathematics only when its application is a necessary condition for achieving the stated objective of the paper. When mathematics is used, the necessity for doing so should be explained, and the major steps in the argument and the conclusions made intelligible to a non-mathematical reader. Wherever possible, authors are encouraged to put the mathematical parts of their argument into an appendix.
